Five special exhibitions showcasing collection items never seen before

Denver, October 15, 2020 – Kirkland Museum of Fine & Decorative Art announces its 2021 exhibition schedule, with five special exhibitions held in the museum’s Temporary Exhibition Gallery. These exhibitions will showcase works from the museum’s permanent collections, many never seen before.

“2020 has provided Kirkland Museum the opportunity to reimagine exhibitions and programming that support the health and well-being of our visitors,” says Associate Museum Director Renée Albiston. “We’ve embraced this opportunity to add virtual programming. Each of our 2021 exhibitions will have both an online and in-person component, allowing for socially-distant viewing at the museum and a chance to engage with the art from home.”

Special exhibitions are included with admission and do not require a separate ticket, but pre-reserved timed tickets are required to visit Kirkland Museum. Each exhibition will be supplemented with virtual tours and supporting content added to kirklandmuseum.org for those who wish to experience the exhibitions from the safety of their own homes. Additionally, a lecture series is planned to accompany the last four exhibitions.
